iTunes 7.2.3.3 is all about fixing bugs with iTunes. However, we are not going to release a new version just because Apple has released iTunes 7.2.4. We have a lot more bugs we want to fix in iTunes. This version of iTunes 7.2.3.3 contains a lot of fixes, most notably, but not limited to the following: Fixes the very annoying problem where iTunes seems to delete the metadata after restoring from backup. Fixes the problem where iTunes does not show the cover art in Cover Flow view and the Radio in Music view. Fixes the problems with importing CDs into iTunes. Fixes the problem where iTunes (only iTunes) crashes after adding certain media to an already existing library. Fixes the problem where the Playlist view freezes after updating to iTunes 7.2.4. Fixes the problem where iTunes has a very odd problem where when you try to run iTunes 7.2.3.3 through the Windows 7 user interface a window called Windows Media Player pops up. Fixes the problem where iTunes does not work with Windows 8 (64-bit). The latest iTunes 7.2.3.3 fixes the problem

Music and radio data, which is required by the iTunes software to function correctly, will be stored on your computer. This data is essential to the functioning of your player, but is not copied to the iTunes library.

Option 1: Radio Data Store The radio data store allows you to browse, copy, or delete the radio data stored on your computer. If you would like to remove the radio data from your computer or clear the radio data cache, select the "Delete Radio Data Store" option.

Option 2: Radio Data Cache By default the iTunes library uses the cache to store the radio data. By default, the cache stores 400 kilobytes of data. The cache is used when the radio stream is broadcast on an AirPlay device such as an Apple TV. Once the music is finished playing, the cache will need to be cleared. When the cache is cleared, any radio data stored on the computer will be deleted.

Option 3: Clear Radio Data Cache Click "Clear Radio Data Cache" to delete the data stored in the radio data cache. This allows the iTunes library to delete the radio data cache. If you would like to continue listening to the same song after the radio data cache has been cleared, then it is essential that you clear the cache each time you wish to listen to the same song.
