Encourage the kids to create their own designs.Pages Header Monday, April 10, 2012 Bloggy Olympics...{candid moments} I love the Olympics!!! Don't really care who wins this time around, as long as they have an exciting time. I have enjoyed seeing the gymnastic moves and the ladies (who have great hair, by the way), but what I love most are the hearts of the moms of the athletes! You see them all the time on the TV. You see them on Twitter, Facebook...but your heart can't help but smile when you see them in person. They smile and give you a friendly hi, wave, grab a coffee. They give candies to the little kids in the family, and make the kids run around the event just to see the goings on. The moms are the real heros. They are the real inspiration for the way a mom should be. They encourage little kids to try and even big kids to do what they can. They are the most sincere people of all time (in my opinion...I know, I'm biased) because they are the ones putting themselves out there. The kids watch them. The kids play with them. They ask them silly questions and they do the craziest thing that they can. The mom will answer, "yes, my child, that's true. I don't know why, but that's the way they are." This is the truth, but I don't say much. I let them do the talking. My kids aren't very hip and cool, and I feel like they're better off answering their own questions. If I tell the truth, it's a memory with them. If I lie and say they are, then there are no mental pictures in the heads of my kids. If I lie and tell them they're awesome or that the pizza is even better
