Evorales is a Top-Down Bullet Hell game focused on bullet-time and slowdown mechanic. It is a game mix of games like 'BlazBlue', 'Super Smash Bros.' and 'Persona 4'. The game is easy to play but hard to master and is heavily strategy dependent. It can be seen as a game for speed-runners. The game has 12 levels with their respective bosses and a hidden level. The first time you play the game it might seem like a very difficult game, but mastering the ultra and almodes is the key to finishing the game and getting amazing scores. The game has a very unique bullet time mechanic, which is controled by the player, and slows down the game when you get too many bullets and enemies on screen. The game has slowdowns mechanic, which is set by the number of bullets and enemies on screen. The game also has 2 additional modes called Alma and Ultra. Alma Mode Sucks to be a gnu-demon. The gnu-demon lives in a dark and gloomy world, subjected to the harsh and turbulent climate. No one wants to get too close, because the evil creatures will do anything to get his hands on the Alma technology. The gnu-demon takes the opportunity to make a pact with a powerful source of paranormal power to use the Alma technology. The good guys may have discovered the weapon that can finally defeat the evil gnu-demon, but they must defeat their mysterious opponent before he attacks with Alma. The good guys will start out with a fairly weak army, but the events will show you that they don't have anything to fear, since they have encountered weaker armies before and have proved their quality. Ultra Mode No brain, no fear. The gnu-demon's henchman found out the secret behind the Alma technology and used it to establish a powerful robot army. But the good guys managed to get a hold of the knowledge of the weapon and are using it to destroy the enemy robots. This is the closest you will ever get to heaven as your instincts will have to manage everything on your own. You can choose between robot and human, and can switch in between them at any time. There are 3 endings, ending C is for endgame and should be played on challenge mode. Perfect Bookmaker is a turn based game of bookmaking. Play as a bookmaker of a fictional horse race. You are a betting syndicate that controls the fate of a group of horses competing in a horse race. Controlling the odds (the odds) and placing bets is the goal of this game. You can also hire jockeys to ride your horses. Each race usually features three or four horses. At the beginning of the game your five horses are in the money with a profit of $2000. You as the bookmaker have made an initial $500. If you are lucky enough you can make more than $2000 after the first race. You must work hard to make a profit, which will buy you more horses. A profit of $2000 after the first race means that you have $3000 to play with in your next race. Perfect Bookmaker is a game engine, meaning you will be able to add new versions of the game in the future.

THE RACE The game itself starts with a race, with three or four of your horses competing against each other. The race gives you information about the horses you are playing. You will be able to read information such as horses' weight, jockey's experience, and the kind of racetrack they are racing at.

THE TABLES There are five to a page. Each page has four columns that you can use to place your bet.

COLUMNS TO PLACE YOUR BET You can place multiple bets on the same horse. If you have placed a bet on a horse, you can also place a "flat bet" on that horse. The odds change for a horse every time you place your bet on it. For example, if the horse was going to be bumped at 6 to 1, that number will change to 6.5 when you place your bet. (The bookmaker will take a "gambler's percentage" of your bet). The remaining columns are what type of bet you are placing, whether it is back, to win, or to place.

NOOVES Nouveau is when you have placed a bet on a horse and then place another bet on the horse after the first, but before the race has started. You can then place your original bet, but use a new position in the bet. This could be to win the race, win the jockey's
